

One of the largest and most advanced companion-animal teaching hospitals in the world, the Matthew J. Ryan Veterinary Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania sees more than 28,000 patient visits a year, including 12,000 through the Emergency Service. As part of the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine, the Ryan Veterinary Hospital is at the forefront of training students and veterinarians in the diagnosis and treatment of animal diseases. For more information on the Ryan Veterinary Hospital, visit the School's Web site at www.vet.upenn.edu

Many Species. One Medicine.™

The comfort of having a friend

MAY BE TAKEN AWAY—
BUT NOT THE COMFORT OF HAVING HAD ONE.

A contribution to the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine has been made by in memory of

This donation supports the Matthew J. Ryan Veterinary Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, a leader in the development of new treatments and technologies to improve the health and care of companion animals.