Large Animal Ophthalmology Fellowship

The New Bolton Center School of Veterinary Medicine, University of Pennsylvania is seeking applicants for a one-year Large Animal Ophthalmology Fellowship. Fellowship training will include performing complete ophthalmic examinations including slit lamp biomicroscopy and direct/indirect ophthalmoscopy. Development of diagnostic, treatment and surgical skills such as tonometry, imaging, corneal cytology, SPL placement, enucleation, eyelid laceration repair and third eyelid resection will be expected. Advanced surgical skills will not be the focus of the program but experience working under magnification for corneal, eyelid and intraocular surgeries is encouraged. The applicant will be responsible for after-hours emergency and scheduled ophthalmology patients. S/he will also be expected to participate in the teaching of senior veterinary students.

Requirements include a DVM degree or equivalent, and demonstrated interest in large animal ophthalmology. This position is open to veterinarians that have completed residencies in other specialties or completed a rotating internship. The salary will be $32,000 per year. The position will begin July 1, 2016. Application deadline is January 31, 2016 or until the position is filled. Interested veterinarians should submit a current resume, a copy of veterinary school transcript, three letters of recommendation and a personal letter of introduction and intent to: Ms. Patty Antes, Department of Clinical Studies, University of Pennsylvania - New Bolton Center, 382 West Street Road, Kennett Square, PA 19348-1692.

Applicant must be a citizen or permanent resident of the U.S., Canada or Mexico. We regret that we cannot accept applicants whose citizenship lies outside of these countries at this time. We hope that this will be a temporary change to our policy regarding international applicants.
